1 Course Description

This course is designed to introduce students to the study of United States Foreign Policy in the contemporary era. We will review the social science understandings of various policy concerns and then apply those ideas, discussing how the United States can make its foreign policy most effective. Topics covered include promoting international cooperation, advancing change in international politics, and dealing with conflict. We conclude the course with a discussion of the national interest and the governmental budget.

2 Course Objectives:

After successfully completing this course, each student should be able to:

- Differentiate among various conceptions of policymaking
- Apply the cost-benefit approach to leader decision-making
- Understand basic findings related to foreign policy
- Understand a basic formal model of leader behavior

In addition to learning the course material on democratization and international conflict, after successful completion of the activities in this course, students should also be able to

- Critically discriminate between reliable and less reliable information in their decision-making
- Understand the scientific method and critically evaluate scientific information
- Develop effective written communication skills.
- And develop skills in working together in team activities.

3 Course Requirements:

- Attendance and Discussion (20%)
- Midterm Exam (25%)
- Paper assignment (25%)
- Final Exam (30%)

Attendance at class lectures is mandatory; an attendance sheet will be passed out daily. Attendance AND participation in discussions are required to gain a thorough knowledge of the topics discussed during lectures. Students will be graded on their preparedness and the quality of their comments during discussions. Two exams will evaluate student knowledge of the lectures and readings. Make-up exams will be given only under extraordinary circumstances and with proper documentation. The final exam is cumulative. The paper assignment (maximum of 7 pages, typed, double-spaced) will be explained in class, and class days will be allotted to completing the paper.

4 Email Policy

Email is a convenient way to continue contact between professor and student outside of class. Students should take advantage of this opportunity but should also do so in a professional manner. I will not reply to emails that do not include a salutation (Dear Prof or Hello Dr.). I will not reply to emails that are hastily written and filled with grammatical errors and misspellings. I will also not respond to emails that ask for answers to questions that can easily be found on the syllabus or the class blog. Last, if you have a question regarding lectures or assigned material that you just cannot seem to master, then ask a question in class, come to me during office hours, or post a question on the blog for other students to answer. Email is best for 1-2 sentence responses, and conceptual questions do not lend themselves well to email.

5 Cell Phones and Laptops

Cell phones are a distraction to both the professor and to fellow students, even if the phone is only used for texting. You should TURN YOUR CELL PHONES OFF! before entering the classroom. Laptops are also not allowed in my classroom.

6 Cheating and Plagiarism

I and take academic integrity very seriously and will not tolerate plagiarism or cheating. There are very serious penalties for cheating at UA that could have consequences far beyond your college career. Cheating of any form is a really stupid thing to do so don't try, and if you have any doubts about what cheating is, ask me, examine the UA policies (see below), or better still, take this tutorial on plagiarism that was developed by UA's libraries: Play-it-safe. (Please plug in speakers or headphones before starting this tutorial.) The Code of Academic Conduct in the University of Alabama Undergraduate Catalog defines plagiarism and other acts of academic dishonesty as follows:

- Plagiarism: representing the words, data, works, ideas, computer programs or output, or anything not generated in an authorized fashion, as one's own
- Cheating: using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information, study aids, or computer-related information
- Fabrication: presenting as genuine any invented or falsified citation or material
- Misrepresentation: falsifying, altering, or misstating the contents of documents or other materials related to academic matters, including schedules, prerequisites, and transcripts.

Although authors occasionally indulge in plagiarism intentionally, most often writers plagiarize unintentionally. Many do not realize that indirect quotations, which result from paraphrasing and summarizing material, also require acknowledgement of the author and the source of the idea. A direct quotation of an authors exact words is the only footnoted material that requires the use of quotation marks, but both direct and indirect quotations must be footnoted. Any idea or statement that is not the authors own must be documented. Remember- the following require the use of a citation:

- Any material directly quoted from another’s work
- Any information that is summarized or paraphrased
- Any idea derived from a known source
- Any fact or data that is not common knowledge and is borrowed from anothers work

Material that is common or general knowledge does not have to be footnoted, unless the wording is taken directly from a particular source. A general rule is that if a fact can be found in five or more sources, it is considered to be common knowledge and does not have to be documented. See Anthony C. Winkler and Jo Ray McCuen, Writing the Research Paper; A Handout (New York: Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1979).
